

How do Mexicans perceive administration of justice institutions?

Mexican citizens have higher levels of trust in institutions such as the Navy and the Army, and lower levels of trust in local law enforcement. This suggests that work must be done to improve local law enforcement.

Note: Only 2018 percentages shown

(1) Public Transit Police; (2) Municipal Police; (3) Ministerial Police; (4) Public Prosecutors & State Attorneys General Offices; (5) State Police; (6) Judges; (7) Attorney General's Office; (8) Federal Police; (9) Army; (10) Navy

Policy Recommendations

- Identify the causes for citizens' distrust in law enforcement
- Provide more effective mechanisms for citizens to report crimes
- Increase mechanisms to prosecute crime